Fall into Literacy is an interactive symposium about early literacy for all young children, including those with special needs. The morning session focuses on the new edition of the Early Language and Literacy Classroom Observation Tool (ELLCO), an assessment tool that measures the effectiveness of classroom environments in promoting young children's early literacy outcomes. The afternoon will include breakout sessions focused on the literacy environment, English Language Learners, and storytelling strategies and resources.

Fall into Literacy is sponsored collaboratively by projects of the VCU School of Education and the Virginia Department of Education.
